

BIOGRAPHY

SPEECH TCHOBAN & KUZNETSOV was founded in 2006 as a result of long term collaboration of the Berlin office nps Tchoban Voss and the Moscow office Tchoban and Partners, both directed by Sergei Tchoban, with the bureau S.P.Project, headed by Sergey Kuznetsov. Speech Tchoban & Kuznetsov represents the basis for expanded activities in Russia and Eastern Europe.

Speech Tchoban & Kuznetsov develop a wide range of office and commercial buildings, hotels, condominium blocks, retail and administration centers. Among the most renowned buildings there are the Moscow Business Center at Leninsky Prospekt and the residential complex Granatny 6 (both 2010) as well as the new administrative headquarters of Bank St. Petersburg in St. Petersburg (2011). Current architectural projects of the bureau include the second tower of the Federation Complex in Moscow's new business district Moscow City, once topping the list of the tallest buildings in Europe, as well as the Water Sports Palace for the World University Games 2013 in Kazan, Russia. By mid-2013 the Museum for Architectural Drawing will be inaugurated in Berlin. Sergei Tchoban was elected curator for the exhibitions of the Russian Pavillon at the Biennale di Architettura in Venice in 2010 and 2012, and Sergey Kuznetsov was elected co-curator in 2012. Exposition «i-citi/i-land» of the Russian pavilion in the XIII Architecture Biennale in Venice was awarded with a special prize (special mention) by the jury in 2012. In 2012 Speech Tchoban & Kuznetsov was appointed Architect of the Year. In September 2012 Sergey Kuznetsov became a Chief Architect of Moscow.

WORKS

Federation Tower, Moscow, Russia (under construction)

Leninsky Prospekt, Moscow, Russia, 2011

Granatny 6,
Moscow, Russia,

NHow Hotel, Berlin, Germany, 2010

Russia Pavilion,
Biennale di Venezia, 2010