

Susanna Tradati

(Brescia, 1974) graduated in Architecture at the "Politecnico di Milano" in 1999.

She first began working with Michele Molè in 2004 with Nemesi, and then, since 2008, as an associate partner of "Nemesi&Partners".

She has overseen the strategic and operational management of various projects, including the Italy Pavilion at Milan Expo 2015.

The hallmarks of Nemesi architecture are found in its complex geometries, fluid spatial continuum with alternating full and empty spaces in close relation with the local context and the landscape, characterised by technological innovation and a sustainable approach to construction.

Main projects: Italy Pavilion Expo 2015, Milan, 2013-2015; National Creative Cluster, restricted international competition, Beijing, China, 2012; Hainan International Airport, restricted international competition, Hainan, China, 2012; ENI New Headquarters, won international competition, architectural project in partnership with Morphosis Architects, Milan, 2011; Atasehir master plan-residential and commercial complex, international competition, Istanbul, Turkey, 2008; Refurbishment of Ex Lanificio Luciani, Rome, 2007; Tabernae Outfitting Foro di Traiano and footbridge Mercati di Traiano, Rome, 2004; Church St. Maria della Presentazione, Rome, 2002; Eurodomus Residential Complex, won international competition, Rome, 2001; Duke's California Bar and Restaurant, Rome, 1999.